Clever new device is saving people hundreds (even thousands) and the big computer companies aren't happy about it!

If you want to protect your PC from hackers and viruses, there's a simple $25 device that plugs into your USB slot and keeps your private files locktight safe. And if this past year is anything to go by, EVERYBODY needs this device.

Hillary Clinton, Mark Zuckerberg and Venus Williams are just three among the millions of people who've had private emails, online profiles and personal files stolen by hackers. This includes:

1. 500 million Yahoo accounts hacked
2. $65 million stolen from a Bitcoin exchange
3. 30,000 FBI and Homeland Security agent profiles stolen
4. $21 billion in credit card information ($4900 per household).

And it's not just big companies, banks and government offices at risk. Every home PC is vulnerable to the latest hacking techniques and sophisticated viruses.

Thankfully there is a way of protecting your private photos, videos and private files for just $25..

Grandmother's PC Saved from Infection

I discovered the $25 device that can protect your files from hackers after my grandmother's PC got a virus. And this was no ordinary virus, this was a PLAGUE!

She isn't the most PC literate of people. She was was running antivirus software that was out of date in the 90s, she hadn't updated her browser in years and wouldn't think twice about downloading attachments she thought were from her bank.

So we don't know exactly what caused the infection, but we saw the results.

Her PC was running at a snail's pace running with weird applications she didn't remember installing and a ton of popups whenever she wanted to surf the web. .

The worst part was that we think the virus acted as a back door that opened up her PC to hackers. This meant her personal information including her bank account details could have been stolen.

This was a real doomsday scenario we were desperate to avoid.

How Does it Work?

First we tried putting her PC into safe mode and running antivirus software. But there isn't any antivirus software in existence that can get rid of 100% of threats.

Her PC was still running crazy slow and likely still infected, so we thought we'd have to dump it and spend $750 on a new one. But thankfully, when searching online for advice, I found out about the Xtra-PC and all our prayers were answered.

Quick Summary - Every year people lose $21 billion in credit card theft because of hackers breaking into laptops and PCs. The Xtra-PC is a $25 USB stick that can avoid the risk of your private files being stolen and improves performance at the same time
